LOCAL BRIEFS.

Edward Ray, charged with making an assault on Max Blank, with intent to kill, has been held over to the district court by Justice Clark under a bond of $250.

The First Unitarian society will hold special meeting tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock at the office of Henry W. Law-ence, 125 East Temple street. All members are urged to be present, as business of importance will be transacted.

The lack of drinking cups at the fountains in Liberty park is said by Manager Zimmerman to be due to boys stealing them. He suggests that it would be well for the city council to buy extra strong ones and fasten them with long, heavy chains which the young hoodlums cannot break.

John C. Hayt of Park City, who has been ill for several months from muscular rheumatism, is now at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Newitt on east South Temple street, in quite a serious condition, the gentleman having suffered a relapse. Mr. Hayt is a brother of F. W. Hayt of Park City, and Mrs. Richard A. Keyes of Salt Lake.

Two intoxicated soldiers started a quarrel on a Second South street car last night at Eighth East. At that point they got off the car to fight it out. Several soldiers and a large number of civilians got off the car, formed a ring, and let the two belligerents go at it. One of the bystanders called up the police, but the crowd had dispersed and the soldiers were on a car half way to the post before the officers got to the scene of the fight.

PAVING DELAY. Summer is Speeding on, but No Action Has Been Taken.

The city council committees on streets and finance took no definite action on the South Temple street paving proposition last night and the whole matter went over for one week. There is some dispute as to which plan has the largest following among the residents and property owners. It is contended that Col. Wall's plan has 85 per cent of the property owners in its favor, while the opposition contends that only two people on the street are in favor

STRAWBERRY RESERVOIR. Question of Constructing One on Uins tah Reservation, Considered.

The proposition of constructing a storage reservoir on the Uintah reservation in the Strawberry valley for re. claiming a tract of land approximating 50,000 acres, was considered at length yesterday by the state board of land commissioners. The subject is rather a complex one and there are many features to be considered. The Legislature last winter appropriated $3,000 for making preliminary surveys and securing data as to the feasibility of the reclaiming of arid lands. The act also provides that only one-half of the amount appropriated could be used on any one proposition. It is necessary that the board determine where the expenditures shall be made. There is also a probability that the national govern-ment may take up the same scheme in connection with the Utah lake proposiconnection with the Ctan lake proposi-tion. A further complication lies in the fact that the reservation will not be opened until October next, so that until that occurs and the settlers' locations are made, and the Indian allotments have been selected, the state authorities would be working on decidedly uncer-tain grounds.

The question was deferred until the meeting a month hence, when informa-tion throwing further light on the subject may have been secured.

DEATH SEEMED TO AWAIT THEM

Many Lives Were in Jeopardy When Big Endeavor Tent Fell.

UTAH PEOPLE AMONG THEM

For Several Minutes the Scene Was One Of Great Confusion, but Fortunately No Lives Were Lost.

Utah people who attended the Christian Endeavor convention at Denver are returning, and some of them who were in the great Endeavor tent when it blew down, remark that they do not want to pass through any more such experiences. For five minutes, several hundred of the 6,000 people in that tent expected immediate death as those great poles went flying through the air like death dealing flails, smashing benches, knocking down are lights, and playing havoc generally. The air was so thick with dust that one could hardly see over 50 feet, and the roar of the yclone and the snapping of the flapcyclone and the snapping of the inapping canvas, as it bellied and rolled in the winds, filled the crowds beneath with terror. A noted English preacher was on the stand when the blast came. and he fled just in time, as an immens stand. There were some 30 arc lamp in the tent, and they, too, fell in grea orfusion. But for the thoughtfulness of the woman in the hospital tent who phoned the electric light company t shut off the current a number o people would have been badly burned, i not electrocuted. People were too busy dodging poles to think of fainting, bu number of men courageously grabbed several of the big poles, and hung onto them, until the tent fell. The canvaacted like a parachute, and gradually settled down, codering hundreds of people in its folds, and it was some thing of a sight to see men and womer emerging from beneath through the rents of the great fabric.

It was a remarkable fact that the women considerately refrained from fainting until after it was all over and then they toppled over in bunches It was also remarkable that no one seemed to lose his presence of mind. The women did not scream, and everybody appeared to have their wits about lost for the time, but most of these were found later. Quiet was restored in a short time, and the evening serwere held in the different

HOLDUP NUMBER TWO. Another Street Car Crew Robbed or The East Side Last Night.

The holding up of streetcar crews promises to be an industry in Salt Lake. The second affair of this nature occurred at 11:15 last night on the East First South line near Thirteenth East, This makes two holdups inside of a, week in that vicinity. Car No. 72, in charge of Conductor G. McAllister and Motorman C, E. Harris, had reached the east end of the line and was just about to re-turn down town when the holdup took place. Owing to the fact that the mo orman and conductor had changed places for a few minutes, the robber went after the wrong man, for the proceeds, with the result that his effort netted him $3.90 in coin and a lead dollar, $2.90 being the property of the motorman. He overlooked more than $20 that the conductor who was at the ont end had in an inside pocket. The fellow was decidedly cross over the outcome and said some harsh things ere he faded away in the darkness. The car had stopped at the end of the line at the time indicated and the crew was preparing to return to town, when Harris stepped through the car o fix the trolley, which was off the vire. At this juncture he ran into a man whom at first he took to be an old gentleman with a white beard. roved that the fellow had a white ace. The holdup told Harris to throw p his hands. The motorman at first took the matter as a joke, but when he looked into a big gun he concluded that he had better do as he was bid. It was then that the robber went brough his pockets.

"Is that all you have got?" asked the Harris said with emphasis that it

"Well, what kind of a d-d run are u on, anyhow?" The fellow said a few more things ncomplimentary to the First South the front platform, where he made a superficial search of the real conductor result was that he secured a Co umbian half dollar and another 50 ents, leaving about $20 behind. He hen sauntered through the car and

From the way he operated it is believed that the same man turned the trick on the South Temple street car a few nights ago.
